

Law Day – a day to remember how the law can protect your business

Law Day is observed on May 1st every year, with focus on every American's rights as laid out in the Declaration Of Independence and the U.S Constitution. It celebrates the rule of law and the legal process that has contributed to the freedoms of all Americans everywhere.

The day provides the opportunity to remember and reflect on the number of laws and regulations that are designed to protect the interests of businesses and consumers alike.

In the US, federal business laws and government regulations cover every aspect of an organisation's life, from its original formation and day-to-day operations to eventual winding-up or selling.

The key categories of law which affect most businesses include:

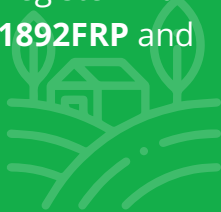

- ◆ Business tax
- ◆ Employment and labor law
- ◆ Antitrust laws
- ◆ Advertising
- ◆ Email marketing
- ◆ Environmental regulations
- ◆ Privacy
- ◆ Licensing and permits
- ◆ Reporting pay data
- ◆ Sales tax

These laws can be complex and complying with them onerous, so it's important that every business – regardless of its size - is up to speed with what's required. Failing to do so can result in lawsuits, financial loss and reputational damage.
